

News of a Death

Martin Robertson

I woke in the night and heard the rain falling softly. It seemed like weeping.
The bright morning glistens on the night's tears.
Time heals and doesn't heal,
and nature is no comfort but is beautiful.