

Against Deterrents

Martin Robertson

We must, if we would have our children live, do more than understand, more than forgive, more than love our enemies. Trust them.
“Put up your bright swords, for the dew will rust them.”