Martin Robertson

[Today we feel behind us]

Today we feel behind us the struggle of the ape; the future's cloud is gathered into a monstrous shape; yet here and now about me between two thoughts I see a Sleeping Beauty's kingdom that was and is to be.

 $This poem is reprinted from Now and Then, the website devoted to the poetry of Martin Robertson, at {\tt http://rtnl.org.uk/now_and_then/linearity}. The poem is reprinted from Now and Then, the website devoted to the poetry of Martin Robertson, at {\tt http://rtnl.org.uk/now_and_then/linearity}. The poem is reprinted from Now and Then, the website devoted to the poetry of Martin Robertson, at {\tt http://rtnl.org.uk/now_and_then/linearity}. The {\tt http://rtnl.org.u$