

Martin Robertson

Living and Dying

We all go under earth but not, God help us, before inflicting so much hurt we'd better not have been born.

And to ask God for help presupposes that there is a God, and one who's well disposed to our helplessness.

All of which may be so, but the likelihood seems thin and in any case we go sure only of our sin.