

Martin Robertson

Wounds

Were all his wounds in front?
would ask a Spartan mother concerning her dead son.
And found in an affirmative answer her grief not lessened
but pride to help her.

My mother had her wounds in front. She went to face things.
What though I wonder,
what would she now think of me? my soul will show its share of hurts, but where?