

Martin Robertson

Winter Garden

Under the grey cold redder than brown, white crimson and green-gold the bare-stemmed bushes glow, just as though
against the day's gloom they make their own light.
Hearth in a dusky room.